Sport, Philosophy and Ethics is the Journal of the British Philosophy of Sport Association. It publishes high quality articles from a wide variety of philosophical traditions. The journal is particularly open to essays of applied philosophy that engage with issues or practice, policy and scholarship concerning the nature and values of sports. Fundamental essays in philosophy, as they inform our understanding of sport and related practices, are welcomed as are theoretical submissions from cognate disciplines.

FORTHCOMING SPECIAL ISSUES

Ethical Issues in Sports Medicine

Editors: Claudio Tamburrini and Torbjorn Tannsjo, University of Stockholm, Sweden

Contributors include:

Søren Holm, Christian Lenk, Andy Miah, Mike McNamee, Christian Munthe, Susan Sherwin, Sarah Teetzel.

The first special issue of Sport, Ethics and Philosophy aims to establish a critical dialogue between sports ethicists and bioethicists across the range of sporting disciplines at elite level. It will address questions such as:

- Are the increasingly intrusive testing methods of elite sports compatible with the right to autonomy and privacy granted to patients in general medicine?
- Could there be a moral obligation to correct injustices produced by the genetic lottery? and
- How should the goals of sports medicine be viewed from the perspective of rationing scarce health care resources?

Sport, Ethics and Philosophy Volume 1 Number 3 December 2007

Ethics, Dis/ability and Sport

Editors: Ejgil Jespersen, Norwegian School of Sport Sciences and Mike McNamee, Swansea University, UK

This is the first full volume-length treatment of the philosophy of disability sport. A range of internationally recognised scholars ranging from philosophy, pedagogy and the social sciences discuss various issues that challenge the hegemony of the biomedical model of disability and celebrate the diversity of disability sports.
